Board of Aldermen.—Vice President Captain William W. Moore in the chair.
Several bills were received from the Mayor, which had been submitted for his approval.
Capt. C. W. C. Dunnington introduced a bill which he thought required immediate action, and therefore moved that there be fourway frequences. Second street east and Penergy replugs near Second street east and Pennsylvania avenue. The bill, on its third reading, passed unanimously.

Mr. Thomas J. Fisher introduced a bill suthorizing curb stones to be set in front of squares number one bundred and twenty-six and one hundred and sixty-three, which passed without iscussion.

Mr. Joseph F. Brown reported back a bill in Mr. Joseph F. Brown reported back a bill in reference to the collection of taxes in arrearage, which bill had been presented to the corpora-tion attorney for his opinion; and, after some amendments in accordance with such opinion, he, in behalf of the committee, respectfully rerned the same. Messrs. Brown and Ward entered into some Messrs. Brown and Ward entered into some discussion as to how the property holders should be notified of the sale of their property for taxes—in what way published.

Mr. Fisher-said that many persons have property sold for taxes, knowing the fact at the time, not being able to raise the money at the time, yet they redeem it within the two years prescribed by law.

Mr. Wards said there are parties in this city who desire their property sold for taxes, in order thereby to secure a better title, and sometimes permit it to be sold several times for that purpose.

The bill was then read as amended, and Mr. George A. Bohrer moved that the board meet in future at five o'clock, instead of half past seven. Laid over.

Several bills from the lower board were reported, and referred to their appropriate com-

On motion of Mr. Fisher, the special order of On motion of Mr. Fisher, the special order of the evening was taken up, namely, a bill in re-lation to the uniting of the cities of Washington and Georgetown. The proposition from George-town contained a provision for two wards. Mr. William H. Ward moved that it be so amended as to read "one ward." This elicited considerable discussion as to the propriety of an amendment, as it was merely a proposition from Georgetown, and must be submitted to our people before any validity can be

It was thought it should be simply courteously received, and let the people decide what they

Mr. Clark moved that the proposition be laid on the table for the present, which motion was

On motion, the board adjourned. Common Council .- Board met at the usual nour, and was called to order by the President. Several members were absent.

A communication was received from the Mayor in relation to approving an act for the relief of the Western Hose Company; also, in relation to a nuisance in the Sixth Ward. Mr. Russell introduced an act to repair a gravel foot-walk in the Sixth Ward; passed. Mr. Jones moved that the Mayor be request ed to return to this Board the bill in relation o the improvement of Market space, as several material errors occur in it; agreed to.

Mr. Mulloy asked leave to offer a petition of Rezin Elliott; referred to the Committee on Bills from the Board of Aldermen :

Bill for gravelling Tenth street west, from L to N north; referred to Committee on Improvements.

Bill authorizing a curb to be set on the west front of square 352; referred to Committee or Improvements.

Bill for gravelling Second street west, from G street south to Virginia avenue; referred to Committee on Improvements.

Bill for the repair of the Council Chamber; referred to the Committee of Conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Boards.

The $250 Military Appropriation.—The bill returned to this Board for the benefit of the volunteer militia was then taken up.

Mr. Jones moved to postpone the bill till next Monday; not agreed to.

Mr. Mead moved to reconsider the vote taken by this Board; he wanted to put the bill fairly by the Board upon its own merits. He was opposed to the bill, however.

Mr. Borrows hoped they would wait for a full Board before a vote should be taken. If any encouragement could be given to our District military, it ought to be done. He had un derstood that the whole volunteer system of this city was supported principally by a few men—probably not more than thirty. A good deal of alarm is felt at this time in this immediate vicinity. If any real difficulty occurred, we would then see how much we needed the services of this volunteer militia. For his part, he thought every man ought to be compelled to bear arms. There was hardly a city in the United States which did not give support to their volonteer militia. At the time of the Harper's Ferry affair, the military had to pay even the gas bill at the Armory. There was no set of men who performed more real service gratis. Though they all have their private po-litical opinions, yet no party influence is ever brought to bear with them; they were reliable. Mr. Jones was in favor of a postponement;

Mr. Jones was in favor of a posspon.

Mr. Mead was perfectly willing. He had been charged with opposing the bill because of a partiality for a company which did not propose to make use of the Armory. With matter of principle. The corpropose to make use of the Armory. With him, it was a matter of principle. The corporation ought not to pay the expenses of a military. For purposes of protection, the police force was enough.

Mr. Wilson observed that this was a Government of the policy of the policy ment building, and they had merely failed to appropriate money for this purpose. The corporation had appropriated $2,500 for a fence around Judiciary square, why not do the same thing now? Some of the companies had been compelled to sponge on others to pay for the

The question was then taken on the reconsideration of the bill, and it was agreed toyeas 12, pays 5. Mr. Borrows then remarked that if this bill were put to a vote of the citizens, it would be carried two to one—particularly if the ladies ere allowed to vote. Mr. Easby gave the reasons why he should vote against the bill. He was unwilling to give away money in the manner proposed. He give away money in the manner proposed. He acknowledged that the military had done much, and ought to be paid. Let them bring in a bill. He would then be in favor of instructing the Committee on Police to report a bill to remunerate them for the services they had ren-ered. Let it come in as a claim. He then moved to refer the whole matter to the Committee on Police, and that they be instructed to report a bill for $50, or as much as necessary, for the services of the military at e time of the Harper's Ferry raid.

Mr. Jones thought they had better wait till the claim was made. Mr. Chapin suggested that Mr. Easby's idea might be obtained by voting for the bill.

Mr. Easby was aware that the object could be accomplished by the enemies of the bill voting with the friends of the bill. But he was opwith the friends of the bill. But he was op-posed to the principle involved. He was per-fectly willing to pay any reasonable amount for the services they had rendered. The principle of our Government was based upon the strength and virtue of the people. Twenty five years ago, a lady could walk from the Navy Yard to Georgelady could walk from the Navy Yard to George-town at midnight, without fear of molestation. It was not so now. If the police was not suf-ficient for purposes of protection, the sooner they knew it the better. If we contribute money, they knew it the better. If we contribute money, we should know why we contribute. If we take $250 now, who can say we may not at some time be called upon to contribute $5,000? He hoped the occasion would never arrive when the military would have to be called out; we had better go back to despotism. If they have rendered services, they should not be too proud to send in their bill Mr. Jones moved to postpone till next Mon-

ay. Mr. Easby wanted his bill to be referred. Mr. Given would vote against any postpone-ment whatever, and would warn his friends ment whatever, and would warn his triends against the parliamentary tactics of the opponents of the bill. He thought the bill possessed real merit. It was as little as they could do to give this small amount, and let all who desired receive the benefit of it. We give this appropriation as an auxiliary police power. The printion as an auxiliary police power. The military were just as meritorious as the police, and should receive encouragement.

Mr. Borrows observed that the military were Mr. Borrows observed that the military were not properly organized, and could not be speedily called out. He cited a number of cases in which it might become necessary to call out the military. If there had been a proper District military here, there would never have been any necessity for calling out Government troops for shooting down our own citizens. He would have seen the city deluged before he would have called out United States marines to shoot down American citizens. He marines to shoot down American citizens. He oped it would never be done again.

The question was then taken on the motion to postpone, and lost—yeas 7, nays 10.

Mr. Jones observed, that reference had been made to the stand of colors which had been presented to the New York seventh regiment. resented to the New York seventh regiment. That vote was caused by the circumstances of the case, which all then admitted to be just and proper. He cared nothing for precedents. It was under the pressure of particular circumstances that men act; and so in the case referred to. We had a good police force; that was enough. This bill was opposed to the interests of the people. It would lead to consequences which would drain the treasury of the city. There was no authority in the city charging. There was no authority in the city charter to justify any such expenditure. There was no law which authorized the Mayor to call was no law which authorized the Mayor to call out the military. There was neither precedent nor authority for it; nor was it expedient at this time. We were in the midst of a storm; the clouds were gathering; let us take in sail.

We ought not to embark in any new expendi-tures at this time. If the Armory was shut up entirely, our interests would not be damaged. He hoped the Board would not reverse its action.

He then moved to adjourn; lost—yeas 8,

Mr. Clark moved that the words, " Columbian Armory be stricken out, and the words, "that it be equally divided between every military company in the city," be inserted. He was not opposed to the bill in toto.

Mr. Mulloy moved the previous question on Mr. Clark's amendment. The question was taken, and the amendment

The question then recurred on Mr. Eashy's notion, which was also lost—yeas 8, nays 9. Mr. Jones moved to adjourn; lost—yeas 8, ays 9. Mr. Easby then gave notice of his intention to call up this bill on Monday night next.

The bill was then ordered to be read a third of the bill—yeas 11, nays 6—and it was passed. Mr. Clark moved to adjourn; lost—yeas 8, mays 9.

Mr. Mulloy moved a reconsideration, and Mr.

Robertson moved to lay that motion on the Mr. Easby thought it was not in order, as he had himself given notice of an intention to call the bill up again at the next meeting. The President decided that it was in order. Mr. Easby appealed from the decision of the referred to him.

Mr. Easby replied that he certainly did.

[Mr. Mulloy here seized a heavy cane which was near at hand, and rushed at Mr. Easby, holding the cane over the head of the latter gentleman, as if about to strike. Several mem ers who were near at hand caught hold of Mr. bers who were near at nand caught note of art.

standing all the time, cool and collected, as if nothing had happened.
The President shouted to members to preserve order, and for a time there was a scene of much confusion-Mr. Jones calling on the Board to adjourn.]

Order being restored, Mr. Easby made an explanation, stating that he had intended no insult whatever. If gentlemen on the opposite side would explain their conduct in relation to the matter, no one would be willing to take back any implied reflections quicker than himself. But if gentlemen could not discuss questions without having bludgeons thrust at their heads or daggers pointed at their hearts, they had better disband. As for himself, he felt no illwill whatever to any man. He felt confident, when his friend had time to reflect, he would see his own error. He hoped all would retire from the Hall in good spirits.

Mr. Mulloy desired to say that there was no member in this Board who more disliked a harsh feeling than himself. He had understood the gentleman to say that those who had acted in the majority had not acted in good faith, or as gentlemen should act. He asked pardon of the Board for his action, which had been hasty. The fault had been with the head. been hasty. The fault had been with the head, and not with the heart.

Mr. Jones moved to adjourn, lost-yeas 8,

The question on the motion to lay on the table the motion to reconsider was then taken— yeas 8, nays 2. There was no quorum. The Board then found itself compelled to adjourn.

FLUNKEYISM .- Mr. Editor: Why is it that, on all public occasions, our "authorities," mu-nicipal and otherwise, are allowed to jostle and molest our citizens as they do? Courtesy seems to be a thing entirely unknown to them Is the quiet and respectable citizen to be al ways thus treated by those who are appointed ways thus treated by those who are appointed as the "guardians of the peace," as your local editor sareastically observes? I noticed an example of this on Friday last, in front of the President's House, when the Putnam Phalanx were about to be reviewed by the President. were about to be reviewed by the r'resident. A very old and infirm gentleman who had been pushed from the curb by the pressure of the crowd behind him, and was trying to get back to his place again, was roughly seized by one of these "flunkies," violently pushed back, and would have fallen to the ground had it not and would have fallen to the ground had it not been for a gentleman by his side, who very kindly caught him in his arms.
